The Tulane Science Scholars Program is a selective program for high school students who have exceptional talent in the sciences and mathematics. This program gives high school students the opportunity to take \textit{college-credit courses} at Tulane \textit{before high school graduation}. It is a \textit{residential program} and students will have the option to live on campus in a dormitory for an additional fee. This year’s summer program includes \textit{eight 3-credit courses}:

\begin{itemize}
\item \textbf{CENG 1015: Principles of Chemical Engineering with Lab}
\quad Department of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering
\item \textbf{CMPS 1005: Python Programming: Intro. to Comp. Sci.}
\quad Department of Computer Science
\item \textbf{EBIO 1231: Exploring Animal Behavior}
\quad Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology
\item \textbf{ENGP 1005: Intro. to Electronics with Laboratory}
\quad Department of Physics and Engineering Physics
\item \textbf{NSCI 1015: Basic Neuroscience with Laboratory}
\quad Neuroscience Program, Department of Psychology
\item \textbf{PHYS 1015: Materials Science and Engineering}
\quad Department of Physics and Engineering Physics
\item \textbf{PSYC 1100: Exploring Psychology}
\quad Department of Psychology
\item \textbf{SCEN 1015: Computers and Musical Creativity}
\quad Department of Music and School of Science and Engineering
\end{itemize}

Each program is offered for \textit{three hours of Tulane credit} (may be transferable to another university) and has a $1500 fee, which is due upon acceptance into the program. Applications are now open! More detailed information about these courses and the details of the application process is available at \url{tssp.tulane.edu}. Questions may be addressed to Dr. Michelle Sanchez, TSSP Director, at \url{tssp@tulane.edu}.
